Subject: Alan Duncan about special needs education

December 12, 2002

I would like to share our experience that we had with our son, Joc's school when he had to be absent for one month so he could receive medical treatment. The school was very helpful and also excited that he had the opportunity to go to Poland for treatment that is not offered in the United States.

The school work was prepared by the week and put into a three ring binder. Stories from the reading book were copied and also any other material that was in books were copied. The only thing we had to pack was the binder and pencil's. No hard back books or work books. We chose to e-mail Joc's spelling test each week. The school told us this was no problem to do, and did not take much time to prepare. I am thankful we have such caring teachers and administration.

Education for every child is important.

Thank You,

Mark and Tammy French
